This story worked out well. Shows the Director working hard to do the right thing, focusing on the work and the people. Also shows him trying to keep FBI away from politics, though the story notes that is harder to accomplish. The fact is the FBI is very much in the news, people are already talking a lot about the Bureau and the Director, and some of it is not good. This story humanizes the Director and gives an inside look at how he and the FBI are focused on the work, and how we are not deterred by the drama.

FBI Director Christopher Wray Tried to Keep the Bureau Out of Politics. Then Came Mar-a-Lago Search.

Bureau's director responds to threats against agents after the search of Mar-a-Lago in an interview halfway through his tenure

OMAHA, Neb.—FBI Director Christopher Wray stood before immense paintings of an eagle and an American flag at the field office here last week to talk about how agents had used a tip from Ireland to help save a local hospital from a ransomware attack.

It was the sort of threat Mr. Wray has made a bureau priority to counter. But the first two questions from the press were about former President Donald Trump. Two days earlier, 1,500 miles away in Florida, FBI agents had seized more than two dozen boxes from Mr. Trump's Mar-a-Lago home in a criminal investigation into the handling of classified documents there.

The seizure set the political world ablaze, with many Republican lawmakers and officials rallying around the former president, and describing the unprecedented action of searching an ex-president's house as the Biden administration weaponizing the Federal Bureau of Investigation against its opponents.

It also thwarted what Mr. Wray has been trying to achieve since Mr. Trump appointed him to the job five years ago for a 10-year term: keeping the bureau out of partisan politics and the Washington media maelstrom after being at the center of both for years, prompted by errors in the handling of investigations into both 2016 presidential candidates.

Christopher Wray has grown more visibly relaxed and off-the-cuff in public during his tenure as FBI director.

Meanwhile, Mr. Wray has sought to broaden the bureau's focus on other priorities, especially economic espionage by the Chinese government and the growing blizzard of cyberattacks that have the potential to paralyze the American economy.

But the Mar-a-Lago search promises to keep the FBI and the Justice Department, which oversees it, under a scrutiny that will only intensify if Republicans take control of the House in November's midterm elections. It has already prompted a rash of new threats against agents, a development Mr. Wray addressed in an interview Thursday in his office on the seventh floor of FBI headquarters in Washington, where a plaque on his wall memorializes the nine agents killed in the line of duty under his tenure.

"I have faith in the American people and I think most people rightly condemn violence and threats of violence, but there are a noisy few who seem to believe otherwise," he said, noting that the bureau was bolstering its own security.

While Mr. Wray didn't address the Mar-a-Lago search in the interview, people familiar with the matter say he was involved in weeks of discussions with Attorney General Merrick Garland and other senior DOJ and FBI officials about the decision to execute the search warrant at Mr. Trump's Florida home. They said Mr. Wray came to believe it was a step that had to be taken to recover classified documents there.

The day before his meetings in Omaha, Mr. Wray met with officials in Iowa including Republican Sen. Chuck Grassley. "If the FBI isn't extraordinarily transparent about its justification for yesterday's actions and committed to rooting out political bias that has infected their most sensitive investigations, they will have sealed their own fate," Sen. Grassley said in a statement after their meeting.

"Preserve your documents and clear your calendar," top House Republican Kevin McCarthy tweeted at the attorney general after the search, saying he would investigate the FBI's actions if Republicans win the House.

Mr. Wray, 55 years old, took over the agency in the wake of Mr. Trump's firing of former FBI director James Comey. Along with the fallout from the report of an internal watchdog that in 2019 found serious failures in how the FBI sought to monitor a former 2016 Trump campaign adviser, prompting wide-ranging reforms, he inherited an agency that had made other missteps. A 2021 inspector general report found FBI agents disregarded allegations by Olympic gymnasts that they were sexually assaulted by their former national team doctor Larry Nassar and later made false statements to cover their mistakes.

During the Trump administration, Justice Department officials said they were unsure from one week to the next whether Mr. Wray might be fired. A year-and-one-half into Biden's term, the FBI's reputation remains tangled up with Mr. Trump. The White House said on Mr. Biden's second day in office that he planned to keep Mr. Wray on the job.

"To all the pundits, they think what we do looks easy, and they have no shortage of opinions about how we should do it," Mr. Wray told a group of graduating FBI agents last week in Quantico, Va. "Follow the facts wherever they lead, no matter who doesn't like it," he said.

"Trust me, there's always somebody who doesn't like it."

That same morning, a Trump supporter and military veteran tried to use a nail gun to breach bulletproof glass at the FBI office in Cincinnati, following through on a call for violence he posted on his Truth Social account soon after the Mar-a-Lago search. Police officers later killed him in a shootout after an hourslong standoff.

Mr. Wray said he viewed the increase in threats against the FBI as part of two trends: a rise in attacks on all law enforcement, with more officers killed last year than in any since 9/11, according to FBI data, and the increase of Americans across the political spectrum resorting to violence to manifest their views.

"Too many people seem to keep forgetting: It's a very special and unique kind of individual who is willing to sacrifice his or her life for a total stranger," Mr. Wray said of law-enforcement officers, including those he oversees.

Mr. Wray has said he is seeking to restore "a bit of calm and normality" to the bureau after a turbulent time, and his preference is to let the FBI's investigative work speak for itself while showcasing its initiatives. Last month, for instance, he flew to London to issue a joint warning with the head of Britain's domestic security service about the industrial espionage threat posed by the Chinese government, and to New York with the National Security Agency director to warn that Russia posed a potential threat to the November midterm elections. China has denied wrongdoing, and Russia has denied interfering in U.S. elections.

Mr. Wray's low-key approach has drawn the support of many agents, said Brian O'Hare, the president of the FBI Agents Association, whose members are current and retired agents. Others say it won't be sustainable in the current politically heated environment and that he may need to be more vociferous in defending the bureau and articulating his rationales for action.

"I'm concerned that in this polarized and disinformation-driven environment, more may be required," said Greg Brower, a former senior FBI official who worked alongside Mr. Wray. "You may see him in his next five years be more outgoing as the reality has changed and perhaps does require the FBI director to be more outward in terms of defending the bureau and explaining the bureau's work."

Mr. Wray has grown more visibly relaxed and off-the-cuff in public during his tenure, to the point of telling self-deprecating jokes. He described talking to an FBI agent when deciding whether to take the job who told Mr. Wray that the bureau could "use a little boring." Mr. Wray said he told the agent: "All right! I'm your man. I can suck drama out of anything."

A former senior Justice Department official and corporate lawyer who rowed crew at Yale, Mr. Wray stresses teamwork. In Omaha he met with local police officers who described working with the FBI to take on a violent gang, made up largely of children of Sudanese and Liberian immigrants, that had turned a local park into a drug market and had fights often triggered by tribal battles in their homelands.

"So shooting over here—over friction points over there?" Mr. Wray said, asking an FBI official how the bureau was engaging with the African immigrant community. The official said the community was reluctant to cooperate but was happy after the bureau and local police had worked together to make several arrests and stop the shootings, giving them back access to the park. "That's what it's all about," Mr. Wray said.

In the interview, Mr. Wray identified a number of moments that have stuck with him from his tenure so far: seeing a sea of law-enforcement personnel when he stepped out at the Miami Dolphins stadium to speak at the funeral service for ~~two agents who were shot and killed~~ last year while executing a search warrant in Florida in a crimes-against-children investigation; and the bureau's effort in 2018 ~~to quickly identify and arrest~~ Cesar Sayoc in a terror plot that targeted senior Democrats and vocal opponents of Mr. Trump, from a fingerprint taken from one of the mail bombs he sent. Mr. Sayoc was later ~~sentenced to 20 years~~ in prison.

A range of sensitive matters have continued to keep the FBI in the middle of the political storm. The investigation into the Jan. 6 riot ~~has moved beyond the violence~~ of that day—which has already resulted in the arrest of around 850 members of the mob—and closer to those in Mr. Trump’s orbit. One former Trump adviser, Steve Bannon, was convicted of contempt of Congress for ignoring a subpoena from the committee investigating the Jan. 6 attack, and another former Trump adviser, Peter Navarro, who has denied wrongdoing, is headed for trial later this year on the same charge.

Mr. Wray said the bureau has taken on board the lessons of the past few years. “The FBI, at its best, is zealously committed to rigor and objectivity and professionalism and excellence,” he said, before adding: “We are humans.”

In the days following the Mar-a-Lago search, Mr. Wray went about regular business. In Omaha, he got an update on a child-pornography case and other matters, viewed a new software tool to help write affidavits, spoke to the new recruits at Quantico and took pictures with their families.

But the controversy over the search was never far from the scene. When asked to address it at the Omaha press conference, he responded in keeping with bureau practice of not commenting on continuing investigations. “As I’m sure you can appreciate, that’s not something that I can talk about,” he said.

Good morning sir,

Just wanted you to be aware of the concerns/comments our office has received regarding the search of former President Trump.

- Hello Chauncenette,

Did this really just happen? Am I dreaming? The FBI served a Search Warrant on a former president? The news is saying it's about documents. Did this really just happen?

I've lost just about all faith in our leadership. Obviously they forgot Crossfire Hurricane. If he took documents, give him a call and ask for them back. Like... Seriously? My own agency.... A bunch of democrat political hacks up top.

I don't know how many [REDACTED] but they may have lost one here.

Is there any plan from leadership to explain these absurd actions? I no longer believe we have real PC based on Crossfire Hurricane and everything else I've seen to include targeting parents based on the AG's letter. They need to explain their embarrassment of the Bu. That used to be a mortal sin.

Please convey this message. They owe our workforce an explanation of their overt political antics.

Thanks,

- Chauncenette,

While you are at it, please ask them why we break out all the tools to enforce a federal misdemeanor of someone walking through the Capitol on January 6th (track down through cell phone analysis and arrest), but people can violate 18 U.S.C. § 1507 every day and harass Supreme Court Justices in broad day light on the news and NOTHING is done about it.

I believe they won't be able to answer it because the answer is that they are a bunch of political hacks of the democratic party.

Federal law is quite clear. Under 18 U.S.C. § 1507, it is a criminal violation of federal law to picket or parade "near a building or residence occupied or used by [a federal] judge, juror, witness, or court officer" with the "intent of interfering with, obstructing, or impeding the administration of justice, or with the intent of influencing any judge, juror, witness, or court officer, in the discharge of his duty."

Good morning,

Here's the latest:

Hello Chauncenette,

See the START of the result below from the politicizing and absolute embarrassment of the recently formed Banana Republic Bu. People are threatening us more than usual due to the actions of the few. Here we go again. I can't wait to see what training we will all have to do.

- 1) What is the predication of the investigation involving the search? It better be more than putting a few documents in the archives or classified material of which the man could have declassified.
- 2) What is the PC of the warrant? It better not involve any type of political opposition.
- 3) Provided 1 & 2 are legit, why didn't someone work with one of the former POTUS's delegates to resolve the problem? I doubt it was the least intrusive method, and they probably wanted the publicity.

The 7th floor needs to lead and provide faith back in our organization if it's even possible.

Thanks,

Due to recent media reporting on FBI investigative activity, an increase has been observed in threats to FBI personnel and facilities on social media and online platforms. As with any threat, where there is sufficient detail and predication, investigative follow-up is being conducted to resolve. With that, everyone is urged to exercise extra caution and remain situationally aware and alert of your environment in all aspects, including while conducting official duties and when leaving your home and reporting for duty.

Follow these tips for staying safe:

- Follow local safety guidance. Monitor local news media and FBI internal resources for announcements on transportation, closures, and updated situational reports.
- Exercise caution when entering or exiting FBI buildings. Ensure your SACS badge is not visible outside FBI space and that all doors and gates close behind you.
- Do not engage with protesters. If you encounter protesters in the vicinity of FBI facilities, report the incident to your local security office.

Any suspicious, unusual, or threatening activities should be reported immediately to your chief security officer. Thank you for your vigilance and stay safe.

I believe they won't be able to answer it because the answer is that they are a bunch of political hacks of the democratic party.

Federal law is quite clear. Under 18 U.S.C. § 1507, it is a criminal violation of federal law to picket or parade "near a building or residence occupied or used by [a federal] judge, juror, witness, or court officer" with the "intent of interfering with, obstructing, or impeding the administration of justice, or with the intent of influencing any judge, juror, witness, or court officer, in the discharge of his duty."

Good afternoon,

Here is the latest email:

I just realized that I wrote a nice little stanza to a poem in my first paragraph. Re-read it with some rhythm. You may chuckle.

The Director just sent a nice message out, but all it really says is "trust us". I appreciate him sending it, but the problem is there are some bad eggs in here. I don't believe we brought them all to the surface, or we wouldn't be wasting time on non-violent misdemeanor offenders that simply took a stroll through the Capitol. People hide behind "need to know" which is how the bad eggs get away with things for so long to begin with. We need more transparency with something as monumental and historical as a Search Warrant on a former president who is about to announce another run for office. I know he wasn't around for the Comey days, but most of us remember the dirt. Further, the Director has a boss (or so it seems) who requested the FBI, such as myself, go after some parents at school board meetings because they politically weren't in line with the AG which according to the AG, makes them literal "terrorists". The Director just needs to look around at why his line troops are ticked off with everything. He doesn't even stand up to such politicized ridiculous rhetoric from DOJ. Sometimes, we don't know who calls the shots around here. Remember Andrew McCabe? This isn't as cut and dry as "we have good men and women taking gangs and drugs off the street." This actually affects the stability of our democracy. "Trust us" is no longer sufficient based on facts and very recent history. Send answers please.

Oops! It looks like our parent hating AG is going to get records released!

Kind regards,
Chauncenette

Good morning,

Here's the latest:

Hello Chauncenette,

See the START of the result below from the politicizing and absolute embarrassment of the recently formed Banana Republic Bu. People are threatening us more than usual due to the actions of the few. Here we go again. I can't wait to see what training we will all have to do.

1) What is the predication of the investigation involving the search? It better be more than putting a few documents in the archives or classified material of which the man could have declassified.

2) What is the PC of the warrant? It better not involve any type of political opposition.

3) Provided 1 & 2 are legit, why didn't someone work with one of the former POTUS's delegates to resolve the problem? I doubt it was the least intrusive method, and they probably wanted the publicity.

The 7th floor needs to lead and provide faith back in our organization if it's even possible.

Thanks,

Good afternoon [redacted]
I am filling in for our [redacted]. We had some questions we were hoping you could answer about a case [redacted]. We were tasked with a short turnaround [redacted] so if you are available for a quick call, hopefully we can get these questions answered and pushed up. A good number for me is [redacted].

Thank you for your help on this, it is much appreciated.

V/r

[redacted]

Thank you for your time and consideration in this matter,

Very Respectfully,

Jay,

(b) (6) and one of (b) (6) archivists are available to go to the Penn-Biden Center office in DC tomorrow (Tuesday). Is there a point of contact that (b) (6) should reach out to gain access, secure parking, etc.?

(b) (6) is prepared to do an assessment to include volume of material and scope of work.

I can provide more background when you return to the office tomorrow.

Thanks,

Bob/Pat, following our conversation on Friday, we would like to make arrangements for our staff to come back to the DC Penn-Biden Center space to assess the remaining boxes and take custody of whichever ones we deem appropriate for further review.

Jay Bosanko can coordinate with you on the visit, to take place as early as tomorrow. It is fine for you or your colleagues to be present when we do so.

Please also let us know if there could be any similar materials in the PA Penn-Biden offices?

Pat,

I believe that Gary will be reaching out to you and/or Bob. Based on some discussions this evening, we need to change our approach. I believe that tomorrow we will need to take temporary physical custody of all of the textual (or other) record material (likely not artifacts).

More as this develops. Maybe we can arrange a call for the morning?

Good morning.

(b)(5) NARA, (b)(7)(A) NARA FBI, (b) (6) and I can pick them up. (There's only seating for two in the LW van.) Is the plan to pick them up this morning?

I'm in line to vote right now. I can give you a call as soon as I'm done.

Pat,

I made contact and the two POCs will be (b) (6) and (b) (6). I do not believe that they can be there before 11:00 a.m. That location does not have an assigned vehicle, so they likely will come in a van associated with our security contractor. Would you be able to provide a parking space to allow ease of access and loading? (b) (6) email is: (b) (6) @nara.gov .

Thanks,

Bob/Pat, following our conversation on Friday, we would like to make arrangements for our staff to come back to the DC Penn-Biden Center space to assess the remaining boxes and take custody of whichever ones we deem appropriate for further review.

Jay Bosanko can coordinate with you on the visit, to take place as early as tomorrow. It is fine for you or your colleagues to be present when we do so.

Please also let us know if there could be any similar materials in the PA Penn-Biden offices?

Hello Paul,

I know how occupied you must be with the investigation of the Capitol insurrection and the larger-scale preparation for Inauguration week. If I didn't believe it was of significant importance, I wouldn't be sending you this email while you're in that crush. There's no good way to say it, so I'll just be direct: from my first-hand and second-hand information from conversations since January 6th there is, at best, a sizable percentage of the employee population that felt sympathetic to the group that stormed the Capitol, and said it was no different than the BLM protests of last summer. Several also lamented that the only reason this violent activity is getting more attention is because of "political correctness". Here's a sampling of what is happening across multiple field offices:

I literally had to explain to an agent from a "blue state" office the difference between opportunists burning & looting during protests that stemmed legitimate grievance to police brutality vs. an insurgent mob whose purpose was to prevent the execution of democratic processes at the behest of a sitting president. One is a smattering of criminals, the other is an organized group of domestic terrorists.

I was talking to an A/SSA in a "red state" office who was telling me that over 70% of his CT squad + roughly 75% of the agent population in his office, disagreed with the violence "but could understand where the frustration was coming from" which led to the "protestors getting carried away".

An analyst in "purple state" described watching horrified as the events were unfolding on the news, while several co-workers chalked up the insurgency as a "response to everyone being quarantined at home for months" and more "on edge, because so many lost their jobs and lack steady income because of COVID".

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] after the TVs in that squad's space were tuned to far-right media channel Newsmax. Those TVs previously were tuned to Fox News but post-election the group found that Fox News was "playing to the left" and reporting "fake news".

I've spoken to multiple African American agents who have turned down asks to join SWAT because they do not trust that every member of their office's SWAT team would protect them in an armed conflict.

A senior analyst from my first unit who retired less than 2 years ago has a Facebook page full of #StoptheSteal content.

There are not one-off events -- they are representative of a larger group within the organization.

Do I think they were in the group storming the Capitol? No. But I know that that group of insurgents included state & local police officers and current and retired military personnel. I have seen from news coverage that at least one current federal agent is under investigation for participating in the siege, and that a current Secret Service agent is under admin leave/suspension as his agency investigates the social media postings he made supporting the insurrection. Nothing about how the Bureau is comprised is unique from any of those other organizations, which
