

Dear Mook,

Aug 15, 1981

1) The arbor is wonderful! Congratulations!
It looks like it's always been there. The shape & color match the gazebo perfectly! What can we do to retain the color before it fades? Let's not make the same mistake that we (i.e. you) made w the other arbor.

In terms of support I would recommend 3 of those brackets on each side of each leg. When done, they need to be painted brown to match (as you suggested)

2) The pip & basket goes on side of cupboard over fridge (entered both ways). I left it there.

3) Don't forget the sun that goes over the hot tub.

4) I tried the new basketball from your closet. It's a vast improvement over the other two but it needs a little air. It should become our primary ball.

5) The 3 horizontal montages and the new vertical one go side by side on wall forming a wall montage i.e.

It should fit perfectly bottom should be approx $3\frac{1}{2}$ " below where it is now (to allow room for another row above)

See the magazine on your bed

Enjoy!

P.S. Where
were the towels?
(wash em)

Dear Marty,

(Pages ① & ② are in your bathroom)

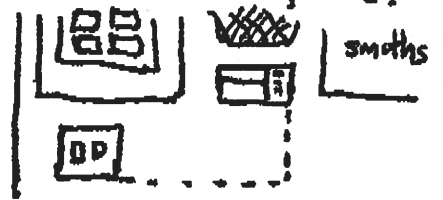

1) The purple and pink hanging impatiens go hang from wall between den and dining area flanking symmetrically the plant that already hangs there. The pink one hangs closer to fireplace (matching the pinen bread man there). The purple is currently hanging from your exercise bike and the pink is in the box next to it.

2) The hanging nasturtium (long orange) and the hanging rex beponia (violet) go in the master bath. The beponia aligns with the pink plant and divides the remaining space. The nasturtium does the same on the perpendicular line. i.e. looking down

Dear Marty, (Feb 1990) A lot to discuss:

~~1~~ Put the electric control panel ^{under} the ^{living room} thermostat, i.e. its lower right corner should be defined by the light switch bottom and the thermostat right side

~~2~~ In the Master bathroom center the umbrella picture between the shower tiles and the (toilet) hanging shelf. It's bottom should be 1 inch above the top of the best lamp switch

~~3~~ The Fairy sign's ^{right side} should align with the umbrella's right side. It's top should align with the top of the best lamp switch

~~4~~ Butterfly w flowers goes above shower
Forget it! (I'll do it)

~~5~~ The sign over front door isn't centered. Align it w the inner door

~~6~~ Re-center the hair cut sign (your bathroom) so it aligns w the i.e. to the right sink like

~~7~~ I placed the scale and drew an outline of Mickey's ears in the wall

~~8~~ Return a) In the West of the Nite (we have it) b) door chimes (don't work) c) Magic Tricks (did we order it?)

~~9~~ Move sign over your bedroom door to the right 1/2 inch

~~10~~ Don't use the eye massager. We can't return it so we'll leave it for people we hate at parties

~~11~~ Put the woodpecker door knocker on divider between window and front door centered at level of his & her planters

~~13~~ Ted's Root Beer goes above window in kitchen (Not buster window) align w right side of window

March 25, 1990 Dear Marty,

I have spent more time in your bathroom this weekend than you have in your life, so let's start there.

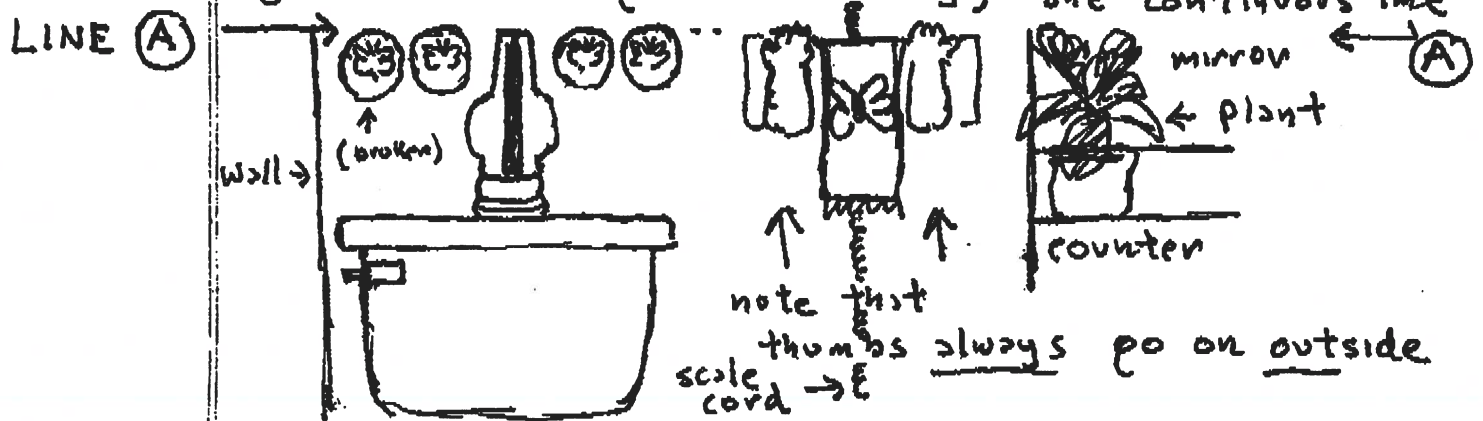

1) Hair cut sign still needs to be moved (appx 1") to the right

2) Put up the circle butterfly flies so their ^{top} height aligns with the top of the condolabra over the toilet equally spaced over the width of the tank. (Keep the one you broke on the extreme left.)

3) Put up the smaller of the muscle bars at the top of the muscle brackets aligns at the same height, bisecting the space between the tank and the mirror. (scale cord goes behind bar.)

This will hold your face towel (also butterfly). This you have one continuous line

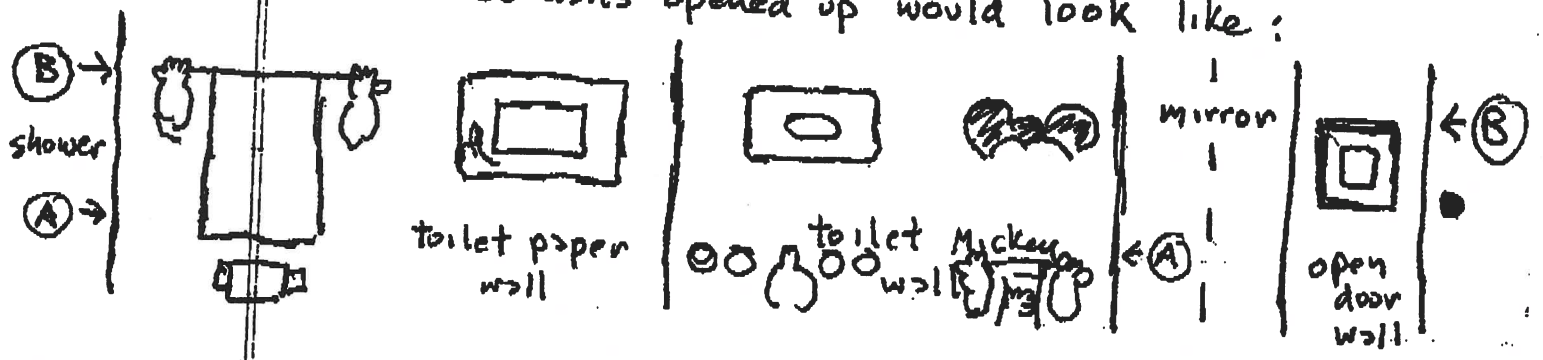

4) Put up the shell / mirror tissue box horizontally bisecting the toilet tank so the top aligns with top of Mickey's ears. This will create a second higher line (B)

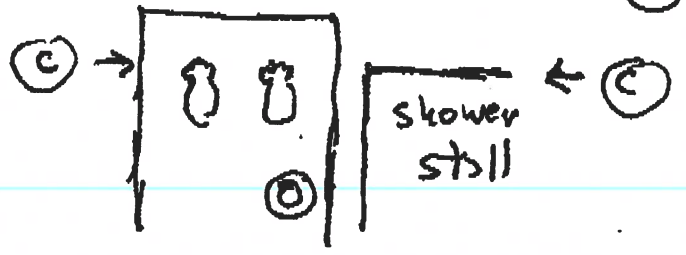

5) Put up larger towel bar over toilet paper holder (next to shower) symmetrically horizontally at aforementioned height (B) (i.e. top of brackets at line B)

6) Put up June 22, 1986 picture on same wall at same height (B) dividing space between towel bar and Mickey wall
Thus the (B) line will wrap around from shower to mirror

7) Put up Marty-Twins picture at same height (B) (i.e. top of frame at height B) on wall opposite shower picture should divide space between end of mirror and edge of open door. i.e. Three walls opened up would look like:

8) The two muscle hooks go on the door splitting it into thirds. The top of the bracket should align with the top of the shower creating a new higher line (C) for the closed door wall only
i.e.

There's still more we can and will do but (if you keep the counter clean) you now have a hell of a unique and inviting bathroom.

I hope you're impressed. (I am).

Dear Marty

3) The signs are great! However they need nails in all the holes in order to lie flat.
Sorry for the extra work but you'll see that it does make a difference. (don't forget the one in master bath and master closet) Also one nail in Morton salt sticks out too much

4) Some problems with the lites:

A) Where is the instruction manual / ?
For what you paid aren't you entitled to one?
This is really outrageous! 3 copied pages from a manual that's at least 28 pages long!

B) When you turn the hall lite ^(or off) on, from the switch outside the master bedroom, the master bath lites go on as well. (Amusing at first but subsequently annoying)

C) The lite switch for next to master bed
no longer operates. ^{very} Inconvenient when you go to bed)

D) Leave your lite on so it can be operated when entering your bedroom

E) Lite switch in third bedroom doesn't turn on lite. That was whole purpose that we got it.

5) The Den:

You were right about the new (lt. blue) picture. Lower it so that the top of the lower frame aligns with the top of the lite switch

i.e.

The black massage chair is going to be dramatically beautiful. We'll match it with a black leather couch and the room will be breathtakingly striking in black and white. (Plants, pedestals, stereo, tape, VCR, chess, ^{remotes} bike, ^{etc.} lamp are already in that motif)

6) Check out the name & phone # of the contractor/carpenter who built the beautiful house on the left of new road (next ^{or near} to the over-large monstrosity we toured.)

We can let him build the bookcase (and perhaps some more video racks) and tempt him with the carrot of the ^{first} house. He looks like he's just about done with this house.

I'll draw plans for the bookcase over now if necessary.

Every time I return I am more astounded by how truly remarkable this house is. Many may be more expensive, but none is more unique
